WESTMINSTER BRIEFING

Not a Victimless Crime – Improving Support for Victims of Fraud

15 October 2009

Dear Colleague,

I enclose details of our forthcoming Westminster Briefing, hosted by the House Magazine in association with the National Fraud Authority. This event will be held in Westminster on Thursday, 15th October 2009.

The recent National Fraud Strategy promises 'a new approach to combating fraud'. As one of four priority areas identified for special focus, the National Fraud Authority (NFA) is currently working on new measures to improve support for victims.

Participants at this Westminster Briefing will have the opportunity to consider developments in improving support for victims of fraud. Engaging with the panel, delegates will discuss what more can be done to improve support services, make reporting easier and also help victims realise their responsibilities to other potential victims. Speakers include:

- Dr Bernard Herdan CB, Chief Executive, National Fraud Authority
- Dr Mark Button, University of Portsmouth (leading current NFA victim research)
- Victim Support
